taxition imposed by the Customs Stations outside Hongkong on salt fish, one of the principal articles of food amongst the native population, came upon the Government as a surprise. The action of the Customs had already been brought to the notice of the Macao authorities by a patition presented to the Junta da Fazenda by the farmer of the salt monopoly. The salt trade is one of the most important branches of commerce in of trade, it is carried on by a farmer, A full Chronology of remarkable events since who pays an annual rent to the Government for the exclusive right of importing and exporting it and dealing in it by last few years has been declining in sympathy | $10 in each case, are to be remitted. There being therefore no Chinese carriers to take from Hengkong the salt which is imported here by ocean going vessels, it can only be conveyed to Macao by the river steamers. This entails a large increase in freight, which so enhances the cost of the article as to make at almost impossible to deal in it with profit: consequently the trade is now paralysed. The petitioner further alleges that large junks cannot come full of salt as in former days, as that article being a Chinese Government monopoly the craisers prevent them and they are liable to confiscation. There is no manner of doubt that the cordon drawn tighter and tighter every year, and with the last Opium Convention it seems that the Chinese Government have almost attained their much cherished object of totally doing away with smuggling of any sort. A few of these bouses which in 1885 I remarked upon as being perfectly disgraceful, I find to my pleasure and surprise remodelled voluntarily by the landlords very much to the benefit of the poor unfortunate coolies who had to live there, and I have no doubt that these improvements have been carried out at a very small loss, that the landlords do not receive much smaller rents. People here seem to think senitation is not required. They say Hongkong is so marvellously healthy, and then they quote statistics. All I can say is I have been going through these statistics very careenormous. As I remarked, I think, the other day, sanitary legislation has usually been carried out under the influence of a panic. If we carry sanitary legislation here under a panic what would become of the landlords! I am afraid they would not receive much consideration. We soldiers always say " Prepare for war in the time of peace," and so it appears to me in this instance the proper time for carrying out sanitary legislation is now, not to wait until there is a panie. I do not think, really, it is necessary for me to say more. All I plead for is to go on with the Bill. I have said all along "make a beginning." It is of no use folding our hands and doing nothing. Surgeon's report, which was laid on the table of the Legislative Council yesterday afternoon:-Government Civil Hospital, Hongkong, 17th May, 1887.

Sir,-I have the honour to forward my annual report for the year 1886, together with the tables shewing the work done in the different establishments in the medical department under my supervision. I also forward the reports from the Superintendent of the Government Civil Hospital, the Superintendent of the Lock Hospital, and the Government Analyst.

The admissions from the Police Force to Hospital show a considerable increase and have been the largest number admitted in the past six years. The increase has been principally in the Chinese portions of the Force as shown in the following

The Europeans suffer most as is seen on the rate of sickness and mortality in Table II, the Indians next in rate of sickness are the lowest, in rate of mortality the Chinese lowest, in rate of sickness are next to the Europeans in rate of mortality.

All over the Island and the Kowloon peninsula the sickness has increased in every station, and was principally caused by Fever and Bowel complaints.
